ESMO CONGRESS 2021 |

22 September 2021 | Hybrid Meeting
ESMO TOGETHER 2021 |

WELCOME LETTER

Dear Faculty Members and Dear Colleagues,

We are pleased as Faculty Members, with the collaboration and support of the Cancer Research Group, the Hematology Oncology Department, Faculty of Medicine - Saint-Joseph University, the Arab Medical Association Against Cancer and the Africa Middle East Cancer Intergroup to organize our attendance and continuous medical education experience of this 2021 ESMO Meeting.

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, all conferences are currently organized through the web. Nevertheless, we believe that doing it together will give a good stimulation for our continuous medical education objectives during the six days' attendance. We will complete our experience with daily satellite symposium supported by pharmaceutical companies, and by a Webinar presentation to be held on Wednesday the 22nd of September, 2021 targeting Hemato-Oncology colleagues graduated from Saint-Joseph University School of Medicine, our colleagues in Lebanon, our colleagues in the Arab World and younger generation of hematologist oncologist including fellows in the region.

We hope that this initiative will complete our previous steps towards more comprehensive and educational experience to current hybrid and web supported meetings.

We would like to thank the CME office - Faculty of Medicine - Saint-Joseph University and the AMAAC for granting the continuous medical education evaluation for this event.

"Together", we will continue throughout our mission of getting the best of education in order to provide the best treatment to our patients.

MARWAN GHOSN, MD, MHHM

Professor Hematology Oncology - ESMO Together Chairman

OBJECTIVES

The aim of the ESMO Together is to provide scientific and educational objectives for both Faculty and the attendees of the Webinar, to increase medical awareness, and to update Oncologists and institutional healthcare affiliates with the new clinical data raised during the ESMO 2021 virtual meeting.

For the Faculty, objectives will be to review together recent advances in the treatment and diagnosis of Breast Cancers, Gastrointestinal Cancers, Lung Cancers, Genitourinary Cancers (including Kidney, Urothelial, and Prostate), Thoracic Cancers, and other Solid Tumors (including Sarcoma, Melanoma, Brain Tumors). They will also cover the diagnosis and management of Malignant Hematology disease (including Acute Leukemia, Chronic Leukemia, Myelodysplastic Syndromes and Lymphomas).

Objectives for the attendees of the Webinar to be broadcasted on Wednesday (Sept. 22, 2021) will be to review of the most important data presented during the six-day meeting. This will be at the discretion of the Faculty members reviewing and presenting the data which will include: Breast Cancers (localized, metastatic), Gastrointestinal Cancers (upper GI, Colo-Rectal), Lung Cancers, Genitourinary Cancers (Kidney, Urothelial, and Prostate), Thoracic Cancers (localized, metastatic), and other Solid Tumors (Sarcoma, Melanoma, Brain Tumors); as well as Malignant Hematology (Acute Leukemia, Chronic Leukemia, Myelodysplastic Syndromes and Lymphomas).

General Objective also includes a stimulation for a continuous medical education and update information on a rapid growing and evolving cancer research field better provided through a group, and covering the annual ESMO Meeting.
